Dear Mr. Weisberg:

I very much appreciated your courtesy and the time you took in coming to see me while I was in Washington.

I have now read your books and given the whole question very careful study. I am still frightened at all the questions you so logically raised and their implications. However, after the most careful thought, we have decided that we are not in a position to offer you a contract covering your representation. I would like to keep the door open for the submission of an occasional request. May we have this privilege?

Sincerely yours,

Selma Warner

P. S. We are returning your books under separate cover.
